CONGREGATIONAL RALLY

Over 125 persons attended the Congregational Rally and Social, held on Friday evening, in honor of the 25th Wedding Anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Layton. The rally was presided over by Mrs. J. D. Wright, Mrs. John MacDonald and Mr. T. Wilkes, and Dr. L. D. Wright assisted at the piano. These together with community singing and amusing and interesting contents, provided the evening's program which was immensely enjoyed by all present.

Following the program, Dr. E. M. Sharpe, with appropriate remarks, presented to Mr. and Mrs. Layton, on behalf of the congregation, a silver tea set. Mr. and Mrs. Layton responded, expressing their appreciation of this token of friendship. Rev. T. R. Davies of Ponoka brought good wishes from his congregation and from the Presbytery, of which he is chairman, and in a short humorous address presented married life from the preacher's viewpoint.

Mr. T. Wilkes, officiating very capably as Chairman, kept the program moving without a dull moment. After the summer vacation much visiting was done over the refreshments which were served at the close of the program, and the crowd dispersed voting this the best "get-together" they had experienced in years. The moving spirit behind this venture were Mrs. R. Hamby, Mrs. J. N. B. MacDonald, Mrs. C. Danner, and Mrs. A. Gilmore, and they are to be heartily congratulated on its success.

RATIONAL INFLATION

The "loosest" administration has received an urgent recommendation from Chairman Harrison of the United States Senate Finance Committee for "rational inflation." It is expected, elsewhere, that the NRA policy is facing its supreme test. It is perhaps not unreasonable to suggest that in this very suggestion for inflation there exists the potential crisis which economic prophets foresee.

The question of paramount importance in this regard is whether or not rational inflation is possible. The tendency is, at least according to one important school of economists, to defer continually the moment when the currency is stabilized—for stabilization of an inflated currency is an objectionable business, especially for a government which depends upon democratic support. As a result, inflation gets away with itself, and becomes master, instead of servant, of the community it was originally intended to serve.

On the other hand, it is maintained that only by inflating the currency will the Roosevelt administration be able to secure any definite artificial economic advantage, and it will be that, compared as he is to a policy of radical economic reform, President Roosevelt must, perforce, adopt inflation as a vital plank in his platform. Whether or not inflation is doomed to failure because it contains elements conducive to its own destruction, needless to say remains to be seen.

ONE ASPECT OF NRA

The real significance of the amazing program now being attempted at Washington lies less in what is actually being done than in the spirit which is moving the chief performers. To understand it, all you need to do is cast your memory back to the heyday of the boom, when James W. Gerard named 60 men who, he said, were the real rulers of America.

Few people quarreled with his list, at that time. Some felt that his list of big industrialists, financiers and promoters wasn't quite long enough, and others felt that it was a little too long, but that United States' destinies were actually in the hands of a small group of very wealthy men hardly anybody denied.

Paste that list up against the background of the NRA program and it takes on a different aspect. For if Mr. Gerard named "real rulers" of the country, the present United States' administration is naming the man from whom the rulers take their orders.

It is one of the most important and far-reaching programs ever instituted in the history of this great republic. It means that the American democracy must be so implemented that it can make it will effective in an age of mass production, high finance and intricate commercial dealings.

SPRUCEVILLE NEWS

A delightful afternoon was spent by a number of ladies of the district at the home of Mrs. G. Cannon when she entertained in honor of Miss Nellie McLean, of Vancouver. Miss McLean is an old timer here, but for the past few years has made her home in Vancouver. Miss McLean has many friends here who were all glad of the opportunity of meeting her again.

Mr. James Hagg, of Bessy, B.C., spent a short holiday here at the home of his father. He left on Friday for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Orme, of Red Deer, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Young.

Mrs. Gale is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. D. Boden.

The Spruceville chicken supper will be held in the hall on Nov. 3—watch for further announcement.

FAIRVIEW NEWS

The hum of threshing machines has already started in this locality.

Mr. W. Potter, of Chinook spent a few days, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison last week.

Mrs. Edward McMullin's friends will be pleased to know that she is improving slowly after her recent operation for appendicitis.

The Fairview Chicken Supper will be held on October 28th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown. There will also be a sale of fancy work. Don't forget the date.

LINCOLN NEWS

The monthly meeting of the C.C. was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Chris Huseby, when there was a full house, and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. It was decided to hold the annual chicken supper on Oct. 27. Keep this date open.

Threshing is general in the district. Dan Wilson reports a yield of 40 bushels to the acre on No. 1 Northern. Six new pupils have been enrolled on the school register this term. We wish Miss Rice every success.

F. E. McLEOD IS GULL LAKE REEVE

At a meeting of the 1933-4 Gull Lake Council, held in Secretary D. G. Osholm's office on Monday, Mr. F. E. McLeod was elected Reeve for the ensuing term. The question of getting rid of the grass and weeds on the beach, which have thrived during the dry seasons, was taken up, and the beach will be cleared just before freeze-up, and it is thought that the turning of the coast so that the frost can get at them, may have a good effect. Other work on the roads of the village is also under consideration. The new council is composed of F. E. McLeod, Reeve; Thos. Wilkes, and Dr. Hynes.

DOMINION AID FOR DOCTORS

Efforts to get Dominion-wide support of doctors and local governments to persuade the federal authorities to include medical aid as part of relief expenditures, and the work of an Alberta government-appointed commission inquiring into state medicine, were outlined by Dr. T. C. Routley, Toronto, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, and Dr. A. C. McHugh, medical officer of health for the Alberta government, to the Alberta Medical Association convention, at Luncheon, Tuesday in Calgary.

"Byes of Canada are on Alberta, it is pioneering in a major way," declared Dr. Routley, referring to the Alberta government, to the Alberta Medical Association. He said that whatever is done may be carefully thought out and successfully initiated, and that the plan is accepted by Canada as a whole.

Dr. Routley outlined the system which went into operation in Ontario 18 months ago. A regulation was enacted whereby doctors would be paid 50 per cent of their regular tariff for treating patients on relief, and their dependents. The 50 per cent to have been paid by federal, provincial and municipal governments.

"It is the first time in the history of Canada that the obligation of medical relief has been accepted by the state in addition to obligations of food, clothing and shelter," he said. It was later found, he said, that the federal government would not pay its share.

The province had to assume the two-thirds of the cost, he said. Since the system went into operation 1300 doctors have received payment, at a cost to the province of $200,000. Province and physicians are now feeling that part of the cost should be borne by the Dominion, he said.

At the annual meeting of the C.M.A. this year it was decided to make representation to Ottawa but owing to the absence of the Prime Minister this has not been done yet. The C.M.A. said Dr. Routley, desired a mandate from all nine provincial associations as well as from the provincial governments.

Outlining efforts to obtain this mandate, Dr. Routley said that in Nova Scotia, the matter was not urgent, but that that province was sympathetic to the profession. Prince Edward Island reported no relief problem, but desired to support the motion.

The matter was not urgent in New Brunswick. In Quebec, Premier Taschereau felt sympathy for the doctors, but the province was not in a position to support a Union administration or at least holding themselves free to support whatever group they wish when the new Legislature is elected.

The new movement does not support the government as before the election of British Columbia, who go to the polls on November 2. By public announcement Saturday W. J. Bowser, K.C., former Conservative premier who has headed a "non-partisan" group in the movement to reform the rank and file of those who favor election of candidates who will support formation of a Union government.

This brings together the Bowser campaign, already numbering 36, and a large number who have been running as straight independents on a platform of supporting a Union administration or at least holding themselves free to support whatever group they wish when the new Legislature is elected.

COMPLETE RE-ORGANIZATION W. R. HOWSON'S AIM

Mr. W. H. Howson, leader of the Liberal Party in Alberta, speaking at a well-attended meeting at Calgary, in referring to the Provincial Liberal program, stated that the Liberal government after the next provincial general election would completely reorganize every department of the Government in order to increase efficiency and to eliminate the tremendous waste, duplication and unnecessary expenditure which exists at the present time.

He particularly stressed the necessity for a new Department of Labor and Industry and assured his audience that this could be done at the same time it will greatly decrease the cost of administration. He said that a department was essential to the labor in achieving its aims, while at the same time the function of this department would be to develop the several industries of the province.

He said that the C.C.F. held out a prospect that could never be attempted, whereas the Liberal party assured the taxpayers of practical and definite action. Both labor and industry had been neglected in the province and what was needed was the certain support by the government of both of these interests. The provincial government should have withdrawn its ranks men who are definitely interested in and connected with all the basic interests of agriculture, mining, merchandising, lumbering and fishing, as well as the labor forces operating these. He definitely pledged the provincial Liberal party to establish this new department when elected and said that this was no election promise, but a statement of policy.

At the annual meeting of the C.M.A. this year it was decided to make representation to Ottawa but owing to the absence of the Prime Minister this has not been done yet. The C.M.A. said Dr. Routley, desired a mandate from all nine provincial associations as well as from the provincial governments.

U.S. STUDYING LIQUOR SYSTEMS

With two-thirds of the required 36 states having already voted in the Twenty-first Amendment, which in turn repeals the famous Eighteenth Amendment, it is clear that the United States soon will be returning to the consumption of intoxicating beverages. The latest amendment gives the federal government one small measure of control: it is to prevent the importation of liquor from wet to dry territories—if there are any of the latter.

Each state will frame its own liquor laws and it looks as though there may be about 48 different varieties of control. There have been various delegations to study the methods used by the provinces of Canada—which vary considerably also, from province to province.

An American writer, W. H. Houghton, suggests, however, that there is "help to be a fairly general departure from Canadian precedent." The eight provinces of Canada which permit the sale of liquor all handle the traffic through liquor commissions, which give the province a monopoly. Mr. Houghton suggests that to a number of American states this system may smack too much of "putting the government into the liquor business" and making it to be merchant and policeman alike. He remarks that there is much interest in the British system employed in Sweden, whereby liquor is dispensed by a private corporation having a monopoly and being limited in profits to seven per cent. The government, however, appoints half the members of the corporation's board, including the chairman. This is a nice distinction and it is difficult to see how it can satisfy those who would have the government utterly dissociated from the traffic. The net effect is to offer a private corporation the opportunity to make seven per cent—of all which profits, in Canadian provinces, would go to relieving the taxpayer.

At the annual meeting of the C.M.A. this year it was decided to make representation to Ottawa but owing to the absence of the Prime Minister this has not been done yet. The C.M.A. said Dr. Routley, desired a mandate from all nine provincial associations as well as from the provincial governments.

Canada As a Leader

Judged in terms of years, Canada is a very young country, and this fact is brought home to any one who studies the histories of the countries of Europe and Asia. Canada, too, while a country great in area, is of sparse population and in this respect is nowise comparable to the older countries of Asia and Europe, or of the United States.

But during its brief history, Canada and the Canadian people have achieved some truly great things and pioneered in numerous fields which have resulted in conferring outstanding benefits upon all mankind.

Our thoughts are turned in this direction by the centenary of one very notable Canadian achievement. On August 5, 1933, Canadians celebrated the passing of one hundred years since the first vessel crossed the Atlantic Ocean, any ocean in fact, steaming the whole way. It was a Canadian vessel, the "Royal William," built at Quebec and launched on April 29, 1831, and with Canadian built machinery except the cranks and shaft, which made this epoch voyage, sailing from Pictou, Nova Scotia, on August 5, 1833, for London, England.

Other vessels had previously crossed the sea using steam to a certain extent, but no other vessel had ever made the voyage with "steam up" all the way. According to an account of this world-famous vessel appearing in the August number of the Canadian Geographical Journal, the "Royal William" actually established seven primary records—two Canadian records, three foreign records, and two world records.

The "Royal William" was: (1) The first seagoing steamer ever built in Canada; (2) the first steamer that ever plied on intercontinental affairs—from Quebec to Halifax; (3) the first steamer that ever entered a U.S. harbor under the Union Jack; (4) the first steamer transport in Portugal; (5) the first steam man-of-war in Spain; (6) the first vessel in the world that ever fired a shot in action under steam; (7) the first vessel that ever crossed any ocean steaming the whole way.

In celebration of the centenary of this last mentioned achievement the Canadian Government has issued a special commemorative postage stamp which, unquestionably, will be greatly prized by stamp collectors throughout the world, and which will serve to bring to people in all lands knowledge of this great Canadian achievement of one hundred years ago.

This centenary of the "Royal William" also serves to remind one of other outstanding achievements standing to the credit of Canada, young in years as this Dominion is in relation to other nations. Canadians can recall with pride that it was their countrymen, Andrew Graham Bell who invented the telephone, thus giving to the world one of its most useful and widely used means of communication.

It was a Canadian who developed Marquis wheat, the effect of which has been to greatly extend the area of the world's surface in which wheat can be successfully grown, and it has been Canadians who have continued that work and developed still earlier ripening varieties such as Garnet and Reward.

Great in area but small in population and wealth, Canada has built up in the Canadian Pacific Railway the greatest transportation system in the world. There are other great railways, other great steamship companies, other great telegraph, express and hotel companies, but no other company in the world combines all these services to the same extent and with the same world-wide ramifications as does the C.P.R. The inauguration of the Canadian Pacific was a tremendous undertaking for a mere handful of people in an enormous but undeveloped country, and its success is a tribute to Canadian initiative, energy and determination.

A Canadian gave insulin to the world, that wonderful agency of relief to the diabetic sufferers of the world, and which has prolonged the life of thousands of people afflicted with such disease.

Not is it a small matter that through the efforts of a few millions of people they have made their country, Canada, the fifth trading nation in a world of trading nations, surpassed only by older, much more populous and wealthier nations.

There are many other fields in which Canada, during its brief history, has led the world, but neither time nor space will permit of extending this recital; sufficient has been recorded here to establish the truth that Canada has made great contributions to the world in many of its achievements. Nay more, that there is every reason to believe that its achievements have unbounded confidence in the future of their country. All nations throughout the world's history have suffered temporary reverses and setbacks; all have passed through periods of depression and hardship. But where the hearts of the people have been true, where they have not been given over to indulgence and sloth, where they have maintained their virility and strength, where they have been courageous and determined, they have always risen above their troubles and reverses, and gone forward to greater achievements, greater glory, greater prosperity and happiness.

All Canada's past history provides an incentive and encouragement to the Canadian people of today. Opportunity has not ceased to knock at the door of Canada. The future holds more of promise than anything yet realized if our people seize the occasion when "Opportunity" does knock.

Has Massive Program

Russia Planned Big Increase In Production This Year

With the launching of the second Five-Year Plan, Russia has outlined a programme of massive production for this year. For 1933 big increases are planned in agriculture, electricity, coal, oil, iron and other metals, machinery, chemicals and in general manufacturing. Thus, whereas in 1932 about 64,000,000 tons of coal were produced, 84,000,000 are budgeted for this year, and the output of 6,000,000 tons of steel in 1932 is to be increased to nearly 9,000,000 tons. It is also planned to raise the number of cattle from less than 8,000,000 in 1932 to 9,000,000, and that of pigs from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000.

Any Looseness of the Bowels Is Always Dangerous

When the bowels become loose and diarrhoea, dysentery, and other conditions set in, immediate attention should be given and the discharge checked before they become serious. To check these unnatural discharges there is a remedy that has been on the market for the past 88 years. It is rapid, reliable and effective in its action. A few doses is generally all that is required to give relief. Get it at your drug or general store, put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Sea-Walled City

Ragusa On Dalmatian Coast Noted For Its Beauty

The Dalmatian coast has been for several years a byword for beautiful scenery. Before that it was one of the cockpit of Europe. Looking at it from the sea, the rugged coastline does not seem worth capturing, and yet Venice, the Turks, the Austrians, the English, the Austrians, have all had a go at it. Ragusa, which is now given the ugly modern name of Dubrovnik, is the prettiest sea-walled city I have ever seen. Once upon a time its inhabitants were the proudest in the world. They formed a tiny republic and would stand no nonsense from anyone. They were like a miniature Venice. Today, Ragusians are still proud to style themselves that way. The men are all extraordinarily tall and handsome, and the girls make you stare, were admitted to many of them wear the national dress, with long flowing gowns, skirts, plaited hair, and strange little red bonnet-like plates. The main street used to be an arm of the sea, but now is paved and ends in the ancient fortifications. The houses are tall and handsome. Every few yards there is a long narrow exciting alleyway leading straight up to the hillside at the foot of which the town nestles. Ragusa has the oldest chemist shop in the world. The chemist's assistant is a monk in the cowl and sandals of the Franciscan Order. The shop dates back to 1810, but you can weigh yourself on the weighing machine just as if you were at Brighton.—London Passing Show.

Want Special Privileges

Saskatchewan Rural Municipalities Would Grant Discounts In Order To Collect Taxes

The Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities is urging upon the provincial government to grant special privileges for the granting of discounts as an inducement to the collection of arrears of taxes similar to that granted under the terms of the Tax Arrears Consolidation Act. Under existing legislation municipalities not within the scope of the Tax Arrears Consolidation Act may, by bylaw, grant discounts of 4 per cent. up to November 1, and 2 per cent. up to December 15. They may also compromise for current taxes and arrears with the consent of the minister.

Hon. Howard McConnell, Minister of Municipal Affairs, intimated that a move to grant the same discount to municipalities not within the scope of the act as those which have under the act, is to extend the privileges of legislation without the responsibilities.

Morse Code For Motorists

Means Of Communication With Other Drivers Is Idea Of Inventor

It is perhaps good news that motorists are soon to have a grammar of tooting. They are not going to make less noise, but their noise is to have more precise and subtle meaning than it has today and the vocabulary with the horn is to be greatly enriched. But these things are going to happen only if, and under the aegis of a certain ingenious Czech-Slovakian inventor gets his way. What he plans is to teach drivers to use a Morse code so that they can talk to each other.

Motorists are a competitive lot. Unfortunately there is all too little scope for other pretensions, because the prices of cars and their powers are not secrets. But the owner-driver of the small car will be able to outshine the best in wit and rhetoric and new reputations can be made.—London Times.

Keeping Ability Quiet

Chinaman Afraid Wife Will Find Out He Can Cook

Goon Wing, 40, is not worried by the fact that he faces deportation back to China, for he told the sheriff at Binghamton, N.Y., he would like to return and see his family, but he appeared perturbed more than a little at the thought that his wife might learn of his ability to cook.

Goon, unknown to his wife, was a cook on a steamer, and upon its arrival in New York he skipped ashore and endeavored to return to his home around picking up odd cooking jobs until he hit Binghamton, where he opened a laundry.

"No tellie I cookee," was Goon's request of the sheriff. "Wife hear, and when I get back home she make me cookee alic time. Tell 'em I handymann."

More Specimens Needed

Few Arctic Birds In Collection At Royal Ontario Museum

Bird specimens, numbering 250, collected along the Hudson Bay coast between Churchill and Eskimo Point, are ready for shipment to the Royal Ontario Museum, to be added to the collection of 10,000 used for research and ornithological studies. The collector, Arthur C. Twomey, of Edmonton, student of the University of Alberta, who undertakes this work as a private enterprise, has had many specimens accepted by the museum during the past three years. A selection will be made from the shipment when it arrives.

L. L. Snyder, ornithologist at the museum, says the collection of birds from the sub-Arctic is still small. The bird skins for studies are kept in steel cupboards and placed in trays, several members of a species together for comparison and examination for variations. The birds appear in natural form, but are, in fact, merely the skins with feet, beak and feathers intact. The skins are turned and stuffed with cotton to provide a body.

The birds from Hudson Bay will not be on exhibition, but share the extensive moth-proofed cupboards that already contain close to 20,000 birds of the 788 specimens which belong to the North America, the Royal Ontario Museum has a fair representation, but there is a requirement for larger collections of the Arctic birds to make more complete the knowledge of Canadian species.

Mr. Twomey will spend the remainder of the summer, it is learned, collecting other specimens found in Northern Alberta. He is one of several ornithologists and naturalists who make collections for the museum.

World's First Black Rose

No Sign Of Shading Appears In Fragrant Petals Flowering under the watchful eyes of numerous park attendants, the world's first black rose, pride of great Sangerhausen rosiarium, is drawing throngs of visitors to this small Hartz town.

The unique flower, the creation of which was recently announced, is a cross between two extremely dark varieties of roses—"Chateau de Clug-Vogot" and "Lord Castleburgh." It is of a velvety deep black-red hue, so dark—especially in dry, hot weather—that it may be described as black. The fragrant petals show no shading whatever.

Some 400,000 roses in 9,000 varieties are on display. Most of the credit for this achievement belongs to 80-year-old Professor Ewald Gnau, supervisor of the gardens, who is affectionately known as the "rosen-vater" (father of the roses).

Good Crop Of Hay

Thousand Tons Cut At The Pas During Last Two Weeks

More than 1,000 tons of hay were cut for local use during two weeks in the Carrot River Triangle, all within a 15-mile radius of The Pas, according to estimates made there. Several outfits have been operating in the area. Hay is good this year. High water did not affect it. It is of better quality than for many years past, haymen say. At 400 tons, Transpore Limited 200, and others including Frechette, Allard, as well as settlers of the Carrot River Valley, smaller lots.

The Indians of The Pas reserve have also garnered enough for winter fodder.

"How did she lose that 32 lbs. of fat?" is what you will be asking. Let her tell you herself. "About 18 months ago I weighed 178 lbs.—which I can assure you annoyed me very much. Everything seemed a worry to me, especially new clothes. Nothing would fit me comfortably, and walking was unbearable. I was advised by a friend to try Kruschen salts, and I am very glad I did, too. During the first ten months I lost 28 lbs. of fat. Now, for the last 6 months my weight has been 146 lbs. and I feel much better in health. Paid For Grumbling

Man In England Earns Good Living Finding Fault

A London man earns a living by going round the city finding fault with everything. One day he went into a big tea shop and found that the shape of the teacups they used was clumsy. It was impossible to drink out of them without spilling the tea. So he wrote to the company about it and the cups were changed. He wrote to the London Underground and told them that passengers could alight at a certain station without presenting a ticket. Upon another occasion he saw that a big sign in the West End of the city was not working properly. He told the company owning it that anyone standing on the other side of the street could not read it, and it was changed. His job arose from a life-long habit. If ever he saw anything was wrong he used to write to the owner about it. He merely used to do it as a matter of principle, but when he was out of a job he suggested that if his criticisms were of any use he should be paid for them. Now he makes a handsome income from being a grumbler!

Apathy Towards Reading

Caused Often By Publisher's Praise Of Inferior Books

The inventor of the policy of "truth in advertising" died in New York this week before he had got the book publishers of his country to see his point. For the United States is "distinctly not a book-reading country," says Lincoln B. Fisher, New York book publisher. And he blames it in great part on the collapse of the book trade. He says, "I have seen too many of my students an apathy towards reading. But surely the greatest creators of apathy towards reading must be, after all, the publishers themselves. In recent years, or at least so it seems to many old-time readers, the making of books has become indecency commercialized. Far too often have innocent readers been wrangled into buying an inferior book by the misleading blurb put out by the publishers. Such an experience is not calculated to arouse in the reader's breast an uncontrollable desire to rush out and buy more books.—Brandon Sun.

Experiments In Taxation

Record Of English History Shows Very Few Things Escaped

There have been many strange experiments in taxation in English history. Henry the Eighth taxed beards, and graduated the tax according to the position of the wearer. The Sheriff of Canterbury was constrained to pay the sum of three shillings and fourpence for the privilege of wearing whiskers. Elizabeth likewise put a similar tax on every beard of over a fortnight's growth. Elizabeth was also bent on making the country of a religious turn of mind, and all who stayed away from church on Sunday rendered themselves liable to a fine. In 1695 it was decided that births should be taxed. The birth of a child to a Duke cost the proud father thirty pounds in taxes, whilst the coming of a commoner child into the world was made the occasion of a tax of two shillings. Bachelors and widowers were compelled to pay for the privilege of single blessedness. It was William Pitt who instituted the window-tax. In the reign of George the First it was necessary to have a license in order to sell hats. Then there was a tax on hair powder and a tax on watches and clocks. In the reign of George the Third a duty of two shillings and sixpence was imposed on bricks. At a later period in the same reign bricks were divided, for the purpose of taxation, into common and dressed bricks, and the duty on each kind of brick was regulated according to its size.

Laughing At Danger

Even The Most Daring Should Exercise Some Caution

That man is an adventuresome, daring and courageous being, with a sense of humor, that he runs the gamut of daily life. It is a trait that comes to him naturally instinctively. He needs no provocation to urge him to deeds of daring nor can he be deterred by the cautious fears of the timid members of the species.

It is known that all animals experience that sensation of fear and that all fear is based on a premonition of bodily harm or death, but, although this sensation is strongest in man, man is most prone to court it. In spite of thousands of fatalities annually, men, women, and children daily take perilous risks, take to the air, participate in dangerous sports, speed in automobiles and otherwise sport themselves as though they were laugh at death.

Antidote For Carbon Monoxide

Discovery Said To Be Most Effective

Discovery of a sulphur-sodium antidote more effective against carbon monoxide poisoning than anything previously known, is claimed in a report published at New York by John H. Foresti, an Italian scientist.

Tea Is Old Beverage

Beverage Used Long Before Beginning Of Christian Era

Tea was known long before the beginning of the Christian era, and though by the thirteenth century it was a universal drink in China it was not until nearly four hundred years later that Europe began to hear of tea through the Portuguese and the Dutch. The first Englishman to mention tea was a Mr. Wickham in 1615. He wrote from Japan to a friend asking for three silver porringers from which to drink tea. Tea was first sold publicly in England in 1657. It fetched from 15s. to 50s. a tin in the last. It was also sold in liquid form, made, so the vendor said, according to the directions of the most knowing merchants and travellers in the East. The year 1839 was a date never to be forgotten in the history of the British Empire, for it was the year in which Empire-grown tea was first sold in England.

Record Set At Conference

Over 8,000 Telephone Calls From London In One Week

One accomplishment, at least, was achieved by the World Economic Conference. It set a record for international telephone calls. More than 8,000 calls were made from the Geological Museum in one week, and 500 of these were special priority calls for foreign delegates. The delegates of two countries, Japan and China, were unable to telephone their home governments.

Air Is Essential

A great need of the soil for crop growth is that of an air supply. Every one realizes the importance of air for animals, but that it is needed for plants is not such common knowledge. Roots and vegetables mould and spoil very quickly if deprived of a circulation of air. Cans, therefore, should be vented to secure the passage of air throughout every part of it.

First Crossing Of Atlantic By A Vessel Using Steam Was Made A Hundred Years Ago

This year marks the centenary of the first crossing of the Atlantic Ocean by a vessel using steam as the way. The historic voyage was made by a Canadian-built wood-n paddle-steamer, the "Royal William". To commemorate this notable event the Canadian Post Office Department is issuing a special postage stamp.

The "Royal William," built at Quebec, was launched in April 1831, and towed to Montreal to be fitted with engines developing 200 horse-power. Her cost when ready for sea was $75,000. Her dimensions were: length over all 176 feet; depth of hold 18 feet; breadth over paddleboxes, 44 feet. She was originally intended to ply between Montreal and Quebec and Nova Scotia, and the enterprise of building her was carried out by a group of Quebec and Halifax merchants, assisted by a grant of $150,000 from the Government of Lower Canada. Among the shareholders appear the names of three Cunard brothers, one of whom later founded the present Cunard Line.

After three moderately successful voyages in 1831 to Halifax and intermediate ports she laid up for the winter. In 1832, owing to a cholera epidemic, she made only one voyage, and her owners became bankrupt.

In the spring of 1833 a new company was formed, which purchased the vessel and, for a time, used her for towing and local excursions. Then in June, 1833, she sailed on a trip to Boston, where she was enthusiastically received as being the first steamship flying the Union Jack to enter a United States port.

On her return to Quebec her owners decided to send her to England for sale. It was on this voyage that she made history, demonstrating to the world the feasibility of navigating the oceans by means of steam-propelled vessels, notwithstanding the declaration of critics that "they might as well talk of making a voyage from Quebec to the moon."

Early in August, 1833, she left Quebec for Pictou, in the Northumberland Strait, where she remained a few days coaling, storing, repairing engines, and awaiting passengers. Eventually, on August 17th, she steamed out of Pictou Harbour for England. Her clearance papers stated she was a vessel of 363 tons bound for London, that among the goods carried were 254 children of coal (648 tons), a consignment of ship's spars, a box of stuffed birds, one harp, one box, one iron stove, one furniture and seven passengers, all British. Her master was John McDougall. During the voyage the starboard engine was disabled and the vessel sprang a leak. After 25 eventful days and nights the "Royal William" arrived at Gravesend. Ten days later the vessel was sold for $50,000 and chartered to the Portuguese Government as a troopship. Captain McDougall retained command and took her out to Lisbon, where she was successfully offered for sale to the Portuguese.

In 1834 the ship was bought by the Spaniards, sent to Gravesend to be converted into a "war-steamer," and renamed the "Yaseli Segunda." Later she returned to the Spanish coast, and on May 5, 1836, in the Bay of San Sebastian, she earned the distinction of being the first steamer of war to fire a hostile shot. In 1840 she was sent to Bordeaux for repairs but was converted into a hulk. Her engines were transferred to a new ship of the same name, which ultimately sank off the Algerian coast during a violent storm in 1860.

And so, with her hull rotting in Bordeaux harbour, and her engines lying at the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea, the "Royal William" ended her distinguished and varied career.

A memorial tablet in the Canadian House of Commons commemorates the first trans-Atlantic voyage by the "Royal William."

More Farms In Canada

Increase Has Been Only In Four Western Provinces

During the last two decades there has been an increase of 46,325 farms in Canada. In the five eastern provinces there was a total decrease of 51,703 farms, while there was an increase of 97,997 farms in the four western provinces. A gradual shifting from land ownership toward tenancy is taking place in all provinces except in Quebec where there is a slight increase in land ownership. The shifting to tenancy is particularly noticeable in western provinces.

One Of London's Mysteries

No One Knows Why City's Smallest House Was There

London's smallest house is now for sale. Wedged in between two tall mansions in Hyde Park Place, it is only 5' x 6' wide and just twenty feet long. It consists of a tiny entrance hall and one room on the ground floor and two more rooms above. Joining them is a narrow iron ladder which a fat man could not possibly ascend.

Still it is a real house with a number and a letter box, but no knocker or bell. No one has lived in it for some time, though it has occasionally been used as a servant's bed room by the owners of the house next door.

How such a tiny place came to be built is one of London's little mysteries. It is said that about 60 years ago a certain Miss Jubb, who lives next door, had it built for her maid when she retired. It is further alleged that miniature furniture was made to fit it. It is thought that Barrie had the little house in mind when he described the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darling in "Little White Bird."

Famous "Bull-Dog Ants"

Professor States Primitive Australian Insects Are Vicious Creatures

The only formidable "animals" in the Australian bush are poisonous snakes and the famous "bull-dog ants," according to Dr. William Morton Wheeler, professor of entomology at Harvard University.

The "ponerine" or primitive ants of Australia sometimes reach more than an inch in length, are "singularly alert, wasp-like, large-eyed, long-jawed and fiercely stinging creatures. The larger species live in mound nests which may be from 1 to 5 feet in diameter and the population of a colony may be from 150 to 200 individuals," said Dr. Wheeler.

MODISH AND SLENDERIZING LINES HAS THIS LOVELY DAYTIME DRESS

Here's a charming model for the heavier figure. The partial belt treatment creates a lengthened line. The skirt while slender indicates an easy flare at the hemline. It is simple, smart and becoming in brown and white crinkly crepe silk against a full-like yoke of white crepe. It's a dress that will carry you through an entire day. It will cost you but a small sum to make it, and will take very little of your time.

Plain grey, beige or black with white is delightfully lovely. Style No. 643 is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 25-inch material with 1/2 yard of 35-inch contrasting. Price of pattern 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Readjusting Prices

Task Too Big For Any Administration To Handle

When it comes to readjusting prices, not only as a whole but individually, the task is a herculean one. Windfalls are subject to an entirely different set of supply and demand factors from peanut butter, peanut butter from ginger ale, ginger ale from pickled codfish, pickled codfish from youths' gummetal shoes, youths' gummetal shoes from tractors, tractors from quinine sulphate, quinine sulphate from awnings, awnings from soy beans, soy beans from soft collared shirts, soft collared shirts from steel rails, steel rails from union suits. Multiply these few examples, taken at random in the Bureau of Labor Index, from the list of 784 commodities by ten thousand or so, and you have some idea of what the Administration has to face if it contemplates the supervision of individual prices. The less interference we have with prices, whether by money, tinkering or by other arbitrary action, the sooner we shall work out a satisfactory price structure.—New York Herald Tribune.

A Popular Error

"Best People" Not Always Those With Money And Social Position

Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists of Hollywood, gave an interview to a reporter in which he spoke about the number of divorces in the moving picture world. In brief his view was this: "Divorce has long since ceased to be a disgrace. Some of the best people in the country are getting as much divorce as the rest."

So there again we have the idea of that phrase "the best people in the country." Who says they are the best people in the country? By what process is that decision arrived at? It is a loose phrase, a best, and is apt to be applied where it has no significance. Those who have social position, or those who have money, are apt to come under the meaning of that term, "the best people."

That is popular usage, but it is also popular error. We hesitate to believe that the best people in the United States are those who head for the divorce courts.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Highway To Peace River

Proposal For Road From Prince George To Northern Alberta

Interest is being shown at the Pacific coast in a project reported to emanate from the Peace River district which would build a highway of less than 200 miles from Prince George, B.C., to the Peace River, and eastward to Peace River Highway, thus providing a motorway from the northern area to Vancouver.

Vancouver business men are supporting Peace River applications to the Dominion Government and to the governments of British Columbia and Alberta that the road be built as an unemployment measure.

Russians Cannot Own Dogs

Must Be Killed For Skins To Clothe Soviet Army

In a short while there will be no dogs in Russia. A new Soviet decree orders all owners of dogs to deliver their animals immediately to special dog pounds. The animals will be killed and their skins sent to Government fur factories to be converted into clothing for the Soviet Army. It is expected that 3,000,000 skins will be obtained in this manner, sufficient for the army's requirements.

Power From The Sun

Upon every square foot of the earth's surface the sun delivers 175 watts. An ordinary roof 30 by 30 feet receives, it is explained, heat energy at the rate of 200 horsepower. It is computed that enough sunlight falls on the deck of the Atlantic liners to drive them at full speed, says the Winnipeg Free Press.

EXPLORER'S WIFE PREFERS HOME

Expeditions to the north and south poles are thrilling, but Lady Hubert Wilkins, wife of the famous Australian explorer, prefers the less adventurous joys of domestic life. She is now in New York while her husband is with the Ellsworth Antarctic Expedition. Lady Wilkins plans to accompany her husband on one more polar trip and then settle down to real home life.

Trade Within Empire

Canada's Trade Shows Increasing Exports To Empire Countries

All British Empire countries, but the British West Indies, imported more goods from Canada during the first four months of the current fiscal year than for the corresponding period a year ago, according to figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Australia's imports from Canada rose from $2,068,263 to $3,183,654 or 53.9 per cent, while those of the United Kingdom increased 34.8 per cent, from $46,907,811 to $63,222,280. Imports of Canadian goods into British India rose 25.9 per cent to $989,146 and to South Africa 16.6 per cent to $1,526,152. New Zealand's imports were up by 9.2 per cent to $1,005,533 and those of Newfoundland 1.1 per cent to $1,829,864.

Cougars Menace Ranchers

Residents Of West Coast Of Vancouver Island Lose Livestock

Residents of Port Alice, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, were last night armed with shotguns and rifles to protect themselves and their property against marauding cougars that descend almost daily on the town.

Having exterminated the deer and the deer-hunting animals in the district between Port Alice and Cape Scott, the cougars invade the yards and corrals of settlers and steal poultry, pigs and hinders, practically all the dogs have fallen prey to them.

This information was brought by Rev. William Gravier, of Port Alice. "Unless drastic action is taken soon many of the ranchers will be forced to abandon their ranches," Mr. Gravier said.

Wheat Situation Is Discussed At Round Table Conference Of Pacific Relations Institute

Unridded To The Last

Bucking Horse Retires From Rodeo Still Unconquered

"Midnight," wildest of western stampede horses, has made his last appearance before a rodeo audience, taking the final curtain call in a cloud of dust at the Cheyenne round-up the other day. He will be retired to the green pastures.

"Midnight," perhaps the greatest bucking horse ever known to the rodeo world, plunged out of the Cheyenne arena chute and, reaching for the sky with his front feet, head down and hind feet poised ten feet above the ground, sent Turk Greenough of Red Lodge, Montana, 1933 Cheyenne round-up champion rider flying. Greenough stuck to "Midnight's" sleek, black back only two and a half seconds. The performance climaxed the big show and the Canadian horse was given a grand hand by the crowd in the grandstand. He was unridded to the last.

Mighty "Midnight" was once a docile, sturdy cow pony of the Alberta foothills. One day a tumbleweed blew under his belly and sent him on his first bucking spree and on to fame. For a decade he has furnished thrills to rodeo crowds from Calgary to Tucson and now at seventeen years of age he will be taken away forever from the arena by his owners, Verne Elliott and Eddie McCarthy. They are retiring him to their ranch in the foothills.

The celebrated bucking horse easily outstrips the meanest rodeo mount. He is more powerful, bigger, faster. He has the weight of a truck horse and the speed of a mustang. He goes when released from a chute but otherwise is kind and docile. "Born to buck—that animal," said an old-time cowboy recently. And that about sums it up.

New Industry In Canada

Montreal Factory Producing Nicotine Sulphate In Commercial Quantity

Nicotine sulphate is now being produced in Montreal in commercial quantity, according to the Markets Division of the Dominion of Statistics. The plant is designed to manufacture in sufficient volume to meet Canadian requirements and supply some export business as well. Free nicotine is another product of the same plant. All the tobacco used in the new industry is of Canadian origin. The low grade and waste tobacco from the Ontario and Quebec crop serves as the raw material. The nicotine sulphate manufactured there is of standard 40 per cent strength and in appearance and solubility is equal or superior to the best imported from other countries.

Lives High Above World

Home Of Forest Reserve Guardian Perched On A Narrow Patch Of Crumbled Rock, 8,130 Feet Above Sea Level

Perched on a narrow patch of crumbled rock, 8,130 feet above sea level, where he lives all summer as one of the provincial government's Bow River forest reserve guardians, Arthur Shantz told a reporter that he would give up his job if he could keep the place warm and the government would give him enough paint to cover the cabin.

Those were the only complaints about a job which keeps him high above the world, sometimes for months at a time, without seeing another human being. His domain is only 30 feet wide by 50 feet long. The lumber for the shack occupied by Shantz, who likes to call himself the "Old Man of the Mountains," was hauled up the mountain by hand at considerable risk and expense.

Relic Of Bronze Age

Interesting Discovery Made Near Oxford, England

Burials which took place 4,000 years ago are being unearthed near the village of Cusington, a few miles from Oxford, where a by-pass road is being constructed to divert traffic from the university city. Seven skeletons, in the "crouched" position, which denotes that their burial took place in the bronze age, have already come to light. A notable feature in each case was that the bodies had been buried facing the setting sun.

The Friendly Border

Pat Campbell made the 500-mile trip from The Pas to Winnipeg with his dog out on the way to Chicago, Fair and on reaching the border found that he would have to put up $200 and $2 for each dog entering the land of the free. Once again, says the Stratford Beacon-Herald, that is the same friendly international border about which orators speak at banquets.

Behind the upholstery of the padded cell in the "Theophile Gautier" when it arrived recently at Mar- selles, France, from Istanbul, Turkey, were found 500 pounds of opium which were being smuggled.

Discussion of the wheat situation and its effect upon international relations marked a round-table conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

A Canadian delegate opened the discussion with an authoritative account of developments in Canadian wheat since 1927, the emergence of a serious glut, measures taken to cope with it, impact of foreign tariff upon Canada's export trade, and negotiations at Rome and elsewhere for coping with the situation.

Under present conditions the member said, the view is impracticable that the wheat growing industry of Western Canada may be described as bankrupt, and its plight is being aggravated by the chaotic condition of wheat acreage. He thought, however, there is considerable hope of advantage of the wheat grower in some international arrangement between the major wheat exporting countries whereby they would agree to establish between themselves a quota system for exports and to control deliveries. He believes such a scheme was feasible, and would not only help to raise the price level, but would, in a few years, result in a curtailment of acreage because farmers would not continue to grow wheat which they could not market.

If an export quota system were introduced it would be necessary to establish a wheat export board to keep export marketing within a single channel.

It was agreed if the process of industrialization continues in Japan as it will be bound to seek food supplies in the cheapest market and will probably increase her import of wheat. A delegate from the Dutch East Indies declared the tendency of Java to import wheat is increasing. Expansion of the wheat market available in China is problematical, it was indicated, as many Chinese do not consider wheat flour a superior article of food, and there is also an increase of local wheat production.

U.S. Citizen Appointed

Hon. Newton Baker Selected Chairman Of Pacific Relations Council

Hon. Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in the Wilson administration of United States, has been appointed chairman of the Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations, succeeding Jerome D. Greene, Wilson professor at the University of California, San Diego.

Acknowledging the honor which had been conferred on him, Mr. Baker told a general meeting of conference members most of the troubles in the world came from misunderstanding and, therefore, the institute should be high duty in spreading out and spreading knowledge in order to lay a basis for understanding through approaching, in a hopeful and scientific way the great international problem which had come to be the world's chief preoccupation and concern.

Remain Within Empire

New Zealand Will Not Become An Independent Sovereign State

Up to the present New Zealand has taken no steps to adopt the statute of Westminster, proposed in a paper presented at the fifth biennial convention of the Institute of Pacific Relations by W. A. Curzon-Siggers, lecturer in public international law at the University of Otago.

According to Mr. Curzon-Siggers it is doubtful if New Zealand government will proceed any further with the statute of Westminster which gives greater independence to the Dominions. New Zealand is satisfied with her present position within the British Empire and will not become "an independent sovereign state."

Saskatchewan Butter Output

Production Of Creamery Butter For July Sets New Record

Saskatchewan's output of creamery butter during July has set a new high record, was announced. Total output for the month totalled 3,251,908 pounds. This represents an increase of 712,783 pounds, or 28.1 per cent, over the corresponding figures for the same month of 1932. Although the increase is most marked in the northern part of the province, it is a general increase over the entire province.

Standard Bushel

Unless a bushel by measure is specially agreed upon, it must weigh the following number of Standard Canadian pounds: Clover seed, beans, wheat and peas, 60; Indian corn, rye, 56; barley, buckwheat, timothy seed, 48; hempseed, 44; castor beans, 40; malt, 36; oats, 34, and blue grass 14 pounds.

HUGE BUTTER EXPORT PLAN

Alberta produce companies are participating in the largest export movement of Alberta butter in the history of the province to the United Kingdom. It was announced today. Total shipments of 12,000 boxes or 672,000 pounds of butter from Alberta will be under way to Liverpool or other old country ports by September 15.

Officials of produce firms state that a large surplus of butter will benefit considerably thereby. Expectations are that when the surplus of butter is removed the farmer will receive a better price for his cream.

The shipments are being rushed to the United Kingdom from the prairie provinces to fill orders before the Australian and New Zealand product comes into competition next month.

Alberta firms participating in the huge butter movement are the Southern Alberta Dairy Pool, Burns and Griffin, Central Creameries, Associated Creamery and the Alberta Produce Company. The Alx creamery is also contributing.

One shipper pointed out that if the surplus butter were kept in Alberta, depressed prices would be in effect this winter. It might mean that many producers would be put out of business on account of low prices. With the butter off the Canadian market the producers are likely to get a better price for their cream this winter.

CIVIL SERVANTS AND OTHERS

Ottawa continues to boast that it is "firing" 1500 civil servants who have committed the unpardonable offence of reaching the age of 65 years.

The assumption is that these men and women will draw pensions sufficient to support them. Otherwise, firing them would only be transferring them from the payroll to the relief list, and the Government would still have to support them.

But if that is the case, and sufficient grounds for dismissal, what about the man or woman who is not a civil servant, who has all through his life supplied the money to pay the salaries of the civil servants, who is now 65 years of age and has no job and no pension? If the one is entitled to a pension at that age, and should be retired, why not the other?

Why, if the civil servants should be retired from active work at 65 years, must taxpayers struggle along until they are 70 years of age before being eligible for the pension that is known as the old age pension? And if the civil servant at 65 is entitled to a pension sufficient to support him in decent comfort, why is the taxpayer who has reached 70 years allowed only one dollar a day pension, and that only on condition that he pleads absolute poverty?

Since civil servants are to be dismissed at 65 and given a living pension, the qualifying age for old age pensions should be cut to 65 years, and the pension raised to an amount corresponding to the annuity of the civil servant pensioner.

SAPIO ARRESTED

New York—Aaron Sapio, New York lawyer, well-known in Western Canada, who was arrested here last July as a fugitive from justice in Chicago, where he was indicted with Al Capone and 23 others for conspiracy, surrendered at Tomba prison on Thursday last.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman on Wednesday granted the Illinois application for the lawyer's extradition. Sapio, who helped organize farm co-operatives in Alberta had been at liberty under bail, pending hearing on the fugitive charge on September 11.

Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCormick, left on Monday for Toronto, where he will continue his education at Upper Canada College.

GIVES YOU MORE and SAVES YOU MONEY..

that's why it's Canada's Great
Sales Leader!

WHY is it that Chevrolet leads all other cars in popularity? Why has Canada given this car nearly 50% more sales than its closest competitor? The answer is easy: Canadians are quick to spot a bargain. Motorists have learned that no other new automobile gives you so much for your money when you buy it—and saves you so much every mile you drive—as a Chevrolet Six.

No other car priced so low offers you the style, beauty and safety of Fisher wood-and-steel bodies . . . the comfort of full-size interiors and Fisher No-Draft Ventilation . . . the driving ease of the Starterator and Synco-Mesh gear shifting . . . the smooth, quiet, powerful performance of a cushion-balanced six-cylinder engine . . . and the matchless economy achieved by the Ocatene Selector and valve-in-head design.

Chevrolet gives more for the money—more of everything you want for pleasant, care-free, enjoyable motoring. And Chevrolet offers you this quality at the lowest price ever placed on a full-size, six-cylinder closed automobile—with the lowest cost for gasoline, oil and upkeep of any car you can buy! That's why Canadians have elected the Chevrolet Six to be Canada's Great Sales Leader.

market should there be a danger of a slump in prices when the new crop arrives at the elevators.

While it is understood the government has not reached a final decision, the impression here is it will follow the same procedure as last year. At that time the government gave financial backing to Canadian Co-operative Wheat Growers, Limited, to enable hedging operations.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

Russia had a favorable balance of trade for the first six months of 1933—for the first time since 1929.

Gold held by the Minister of Finance on July 31 was $71,929,286 or $601,832 in excess of statutory requirements. Dominion notes in circulation totalled $182,113,558.

Twenty million feet of British Columbia lumber have left for world markets. Three-quarters of it is destined for China on the Dominion-subsidized service.

High import duties and other emergency measures will be continued as part of the Italian government's program to maintain a sound internal wheat market, Premier Mussolini has announced.

Raymond Poincaré, France's war president, was serenaded by the town band while he received felicitations from neighbors in a quiet celebration of his 73rd birthday at his summer estate at Sampigny, France.

Caught in full foliage by a surprise snowstorm on August 21, trees were broken and flower gardens ruined at Butte, Montana. The maximum temperature for the day was 44 and the minimum 31.

Captain William J. Webber, 65, steward at Rideau Hall during the term of Earl Grey as governor-general, and for many years on the staff of the Dominion archives, died recently at his home in Ottawa.

New comic ray studies announced by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of New York, indicate these rays constitute a power-house of energy from 30 to 300 times greater than all the rest of the radiant energy in the universe.

One of the men who discovered the route to Klondike gold fields via Great Slave Lake and Yukon River, Robert Hogarth Milvain, 70, is dead at his home in Snowshill, England, according to word reaching Calgary. He was a pioneer resident of Calgary, locating there in 1886 to become a noted horseman and polo player.

Checking Up On Wild Fowl

United States, Naturalist Makes Tour Of North Land

No estimate of the prospects awaiting local migrators was forthcoming from Luther J. Goldman, field naturalist and biologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who was in Prince Albert recently.

Mr. Goldman has been making an extensive trip studying migratory fowl conditions on behalf of his department.

"The vast areas of Canada's northland of which, because of its nature, we have only scratched the surface, forbids any estimate of increase or decrease in the number of ducks year by year," said the investigator.

The drouth conditions of the south, which have driven the birds from usual nesting places, will also have its effect on this year's duck breeding, thought Mr. Goldman.

Leaving California in June, Mr. Goldman has travelled over a large area including the southern portion of Alberta and Saskatchewan, then on to the north. He now expects to swing into northern Manitoba, then on to eastern Canada, and back to the States, where he will report on conditions prevailing in Canada which information is used by the United States department in setting the bag and time limits for the open season.

Now Comes Odorless Rubber

Chemists Find Zinc Carbonate Replaces Smell Of Mink

If rubber had no odor, it might find profitable uses in milk cans, beer vats and food containers. From London comes news that two chemists of the Rubber Growers' Association had located and practically eliminated rubber's inherent smell in a "mink" rubber (collected from virgin forests), putrefaction produces a disgusting smell. But most U.S. rubber comes from man-made plantations. Plantation rubber gets its smell from the sulphur or nitro-geneous accelerators required to cure the rubber for commercial use.

The Rubber Growers' chemists, H. P. Stevens and E. J. Parry, have been unable to find substitute accelerators as good as the smelly ones. On the other hand they found that zinc carbonate added during the manufacturing process reduced smells to a minimum, and very simply. More complicated and costly is the purification of the latex (the original rubber fluid tapped from the trees) by digestion with dilute caustic centrifuging, creaming, dialysis, or ultra-filtration.

Not To Be Caught

The company promoter was trying to raise capital for a new scheme. "I'm telling you," he said to a financier, "it will make gigantic strides later on. Just now, of course, it's only in its infancy."

"Perhaps," replied the financier, "but I'm not in mine."

Protecting Our Sea Birds

Canada Has Ten Sanctuaries Established On Labrador Coast

Now and again hunting men complain of the scarcity of wild fowl, the scarcity being caused by their own rapacity with the guns. It is interesting to note, therefore, that in this vast country there is an untracked, almost unvisited area where the Dominion Government has established sanctuaries for the protection and propagation of Canadian sea birds.

This is a territory stretching one thousand miles from east of Quebec city along the north shore of the St. Lawrence up the Labrador coast. It is a wild and rocky shore, sparsely inhabited by groups of British, French and Italian stock, who subsist by fishing and trapping, and who know more about a seaworthy boat, or the value of a sledge dog than they do about motion pictures or radio.

There are ten sanctuaries scheduled in this territory, all having been established during the past eight years. The birds which make their homes there among the countless little islands and rocks, are elder duck, murre, confusion, puffins, auks and cormorants. The bourns and confusion are strange names to inland dwellers. These places can only be visited by small launches or motor boats, and people who have been there have been enthralled by the life and color of the scenes.

Happy birds out of reach of the hunter's gun. But their descendants will learn to fear the flash and the noise of powder some day.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

EMERALD ECHO SALAD

- 1 package lime-flavored gelatin.
- 1 pint warm water.
- ½ cup canned crushed pineapple, drained.
- 3 tablespoons pimiento, cut in strips.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Pour ½-inch layer in loaf pan. Chill until firm. Chill remaining gelatin mixture until cold and syrupy. Place in bowl of cracked ice or ice water and whip with rotary egg beater, until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Fold in pineapple and pimiento. Pour over first layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce or celery. Serve with mayonnaise. Serves 8.

CORN SOUFFLE

Mix in a saucepan two tablespoons of four with one tablespoon melted butter. Pour in slowly one cup of milk. Bring to the boiling point. Add one can of corn, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, pepper to taste, and the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Fold in the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff. Then turn into a buttered baking dish, and bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve immediately.

Fragment Of First Cable

Fisherman Brings Up Piece Of Line Laid In 1855

While hauling his trawls off Cape Ray recently a fisherman dragged up from the ocean floor a fragment of the first submarine telegraph cable used in American waters. It was a piece of the line laid in 1855 by Professor Samuel Morse and Cyrus W. Field between Aspey Bay, Cape Breton, and Cape Ray. The cable was manufactured in England, the first stranded conductor ever made. Despite its long immersion, the insulation retained its odor of gutta serena. Until 1866 the eastern extremity of telegraphic communication was Cape Race. Off that point westbound ocean liners dropped overboard canisters containing European newspapers and dispatches and telegrams from passengers. A boat was always stationed there to pick up canisters. Newspaper men condensed the dispatches and put them on the wire, bringing news of world events to New York ahead of the steamships.

Dairy Cattle Killed

Several head of pure bred dairy cattle being shipped from British Columbia points to Shanghai, were killed in mid-ocean when the deck-load of lumber on board the steamer "City of Victoria," shifted. The ship returned to Port Alberni, B.C., with a heavy list.

Willing To Practise

Where Labor Is Cheap

Built Of Egypt's Population Earn Less Than Twenty Cents A Day

Why mechanize agriculture where labor is so cheap, and by so doing you create the worse problem of unemployment? This is the philosophy of Theo. Karan, cotton magnate from Egypt, and Toronto's first Egyptian visitor in many a year.

"Egypt," he said, "has practically no unemployment. You probably have more people out of work in Toronto alone than we have in the whole of Egypt. We have 30,000 and they are mostly town dwellers."

On a shilling a day, Egypt's farm laborers eat, sleep and clean themselves and their families. "And," Mr. Karan says, "they are happy, because their needs outside primal desires are but few."

The Suez Canal runs through Egyptian territory. The lease to the Franco-British company which controls the canal lapses in three or four years hence, and Mr. Karan believes it will not be renewed. "I do not think," he says, "any Egyptian statesman will have the temerity to lease it to a foreign country again."

This means that the canal will pass into Egyptian hands, the tolls going into the national treasury, rather than into the hands of company shareholders.

Egypt's women are no longer veiled, according to this visitor, whose unveiled wife accompanied him to Toronto. "The agricultural women have never been veiled," he said. "Because they work in the fields. The women of the aristocratic classes have forsaken the veil, but they do not mix much in company with men at parties. King Fuad has proclaimed that the emancipation of womenfolk must not move at too fast a pace."

Mr. Karan is going to British Columbia to hunt, and returns from there to Egypt in the fall.

Aluminum Ore Found

Discovery Is Reported To Be First In Canada

Discovery in the Kintla district of a great body of aluminum ore bearing clay has been reported to the government by Dr. David Flood, geologist, who has spent six years investigating in the north country. He states that the discovery is one of the most important to have been made in the history of the province.

Early development of the area, which lies five miles northeast of Kintla, is forecast by Dr. Flood, who has made a full report to the government on his find.

The discovery also means, according to the geologist, the earlier development of the hydro-electric project site of Prince Albert, the proposed site of which is just 12 miles from the ore-bearing clay.

This is the first discovery of its kind in Canada, Mr. Flood said. There is a small deposit of aluminum in Arkansas, but the bulk of the world supply comes from British Guiana. Dr. Flood, who is a native of Sweden, also touched upon the other mineral possibilities of Northern Saskatchewan and states that North Saskatchewan would, of the day produce gold, silver and nickel. He found them all, he declared, in his wanderings as chief geologist for a big syndicate.

Keep Away From Airmen

Aviator's Wife Says Marry Man Who Keeps Feet On Ground

"Never marry an aviator," advises Mrs. Wiley Post, wife of the round-the-world flyer. "Find a husband who keeps his feet on the ground."

Doubtless when Drake sailed round the world, young ladies of his day were warned against marrying sailing men. And the advice would receive just the same consideration.

Fortunately, human nature is such that, while some women find their ideal mates in the adventurous male, their sisters achieve greatest bliss through marriage to the "feet-on-the-ground" citizen. The world, if it is to progress, needs both types.—London Sunday Pictorial.

May Do Away With Slums

Slums may disappear like magic some day, according to Sir Ernest Simon, former Lord Mayor of Manchester. He said a vespene chemist, who was an idealist and probably was looking forward a generation or so, had told him that chemists were able to produce a synthetic material to build houses so cheaply and of such beautiful design that slums would automatically disappear.

AN EXCEEDINGLY WEARABLE DRESS

All you have to decide is the color.

Whether you want a dress for street, afternoon, or office wear, here's your number.

For town and office wear, it looks so smart and trim in light navy blue crepe silk. And it takes but ½ yards of 39-inch material for the 36-inch bust.

Prints in crepe silk in blue and white or in red and white are stunning too.

For afternoon, grey or beige crepe silk is especially nice. Note the chic sleeve detail to give the fashionable wider shoulder line. And the bias seaming that makes the bodice "fitting."

It's a very simple model to make. There are so few major parts to the pattern.

Style No. 749 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Price of pattern 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Pension Act Amendment

Veterans Claim Reductions Made Without Opportunity Of Hearing

Asking that in the period still remaining before the Pension Act amendments passed at the last session of parliament, become effective, the government invoke the clause which grants pensioners the right to present their case before any action is taken to reduce pensions, the directors of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada adopted a resolution for presentation to the government.

Meeting under the chairmanship of Colonel W. C. H. Wood, Quebec, the executive of the A. and N. Veterans called the government's attention to the fact that many drastic reductions in the amount of pension granted without service men had been effected without the pensioners having been re-examined by the medical boards and without having had an opportunity of being heard regarding their physical condition."

The amendments referred to were to come into force on proclamation. The government has not yet set the date when they will become effective.

History Carved On Staff

Divided Into Babble Containing Scenes From Book Of Genesis

A boxwood staff, once part of a thirteenth century crozier, containing Old Testament history has been acquired by the Victoria and Albert Museum of London, England. The staff is divided into twenty horizontal bands, each of which contains in carved high relief scenes from the Book of Genesis. At the bottom of the staff are some beautiful reliefs of the creation of the world, and of councils in heaven. From the division of the firmament from the waters, the story is pursued to the creation of Adam and Eve, and a delightful series of animals and birds. The stories of Cain and Abel, of Noah and the Ark, and of the Tower of Babel follow. The series of reliefs end with the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. There is a very similar handle, carved with scenes from the New Testament known as the Pastoral Staff of St. Gaudier, in the Musée de Cluny, Paris.

Both staves appear to be associated with the carvings of Northern France.

Buying Mansion For Prince

Welshmen Think He Might Visit Them More Frequently

Complaining that they see very little of the Prince of Wales, the people of the tiny principality from which the English heir takes his title are planning to buy a mansion for him near Mount Snowdon.

Welshmen argue that if the prince possesses a Welsh home he will pay them an occasional week-end visit by aeroplane. For this reason the mansion will have a private airport.

The prince already has two residences. In addition to that at York House, St. James Palace, he has a country home at Port Belvedere, a little way out of London.

Lays Foundation Of Fortune

Indiana Man Plants Walnut Trees As Legacy For Daughter

By planting, in his spare time, 14,000 walnut trees on 29 acres of out-crover land, J. E. Lemmon, of Washington, Indiana, has laid the foundation of a fortune for his young daughter.

In 40 years, according to the national forestry department, 8,000 of the trees should have survived and reached maturity. They will be worth, at present low prices, $160,000 as timber wood. Should the daughter wish to keep them, they should in 40 years be producing an average of one bushel of nuts each which at $1 per bushel will give her an annual $8,000 income.

Mount Lassen volcano, in California, is the only volcano that has erupted in U.S.A. during this century.

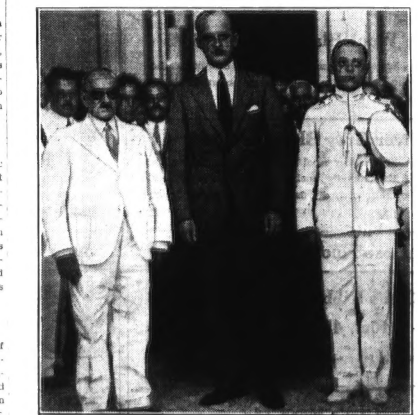

Seems Queer Idea

The United States is to spend $63,000,000 in constructing a dam on the Columbia river in the state of Washington which will call into use a huge acreage of potential wheat lands, and this scheme is embarked upon at a time when every loaf of bread eaten in the United States is being taxed half a cent, the proceeds of which are being used to induce farmers to reduce their wheat acreage.—Toronto Star.

Calf Was Good Swimmer

Two of a load of calves being transported by truck across Montreal's harbor front recently escaped from the truck. One struck off through the city and was soon caught, but the other headed for the river and, swimming downstream, had gone nearly a mile before being hauled out, brought to shore in a fast motorboat.

CURA'S GRATITUDE FOR WELLES

Wrestles With Octopus

A girl has to have the proper scientific spirit—or maybe just plain spunk—to dive into a tank with an octopus and stage a wrestling match for a periscope under-water movie camera.

But Florence Douglas, 17, Menlo Park, California, did just that for her father, Leon Douglas, inventor of a periscope camera, and enthusiast about deep sea science.

Douglas decided a spectacular reel would be one of a "death" struggle with an octopus. He got the octopus—stretching 12 feet from arm to arm—from some fishermen.

"I'll take him on," volunteered Douglas' 17-year-old daughter, Florence. "Who's afraid of an old octopus?"

Mrs. Douglas gasped, Douglas demurred, but Florence won. It was an anxious moment when the slim girl dove into the tank, and the slimy tentacles of the ocean monster wrappled about her. Mrs. Douglas didn't watch; she went for a walk in the garden.

Douglas ground his camera as long as he dared, then signalled "the actors" that it was time to stop. But the octopus was unused to stage directions. Men stationed about the edge of the pool dived in, and it took the combined strength of several to extricate Florence.

For several days she wore the red marks of the tentacle suckers on her arms and legs, but the picture came out beautifully.

"I wasn't afraid of the octopus, but it was kind of slimy," Miss Douglas said.

British Railways Have

Complete Moving Service

Pack and Unload Goods and Help With Settling

Did you know that British railway companies would lay your carpets and linoleum for you—or even move your lawn? says London Answers.

These things, if desired, are part of the very comprehensive removal service that is run by the British railways. The furniture is packed by experts into special containers which is shipped by rail as it stands. At the other end the container is taken by road to the new home, where it is unpacked. It is at this stage that carpets and linoleum may be laid, pictures hung, linen, utensils, etc., transferred to shelves and cupboards—and the lawn made presentable.

Over fifty removals are carried out daily by the railways—some of them at very short notice. You may give your instructions to the company in the morning and your furniture be on its way early in the afternoon.

And it isn't only household removals that are catered for. The railways will move a farm—live stock, implements, and so on—between one mill, and another, or transport a factory in production from its former home to a new building.

Meteor and Planet Collide

Explains White Spot On Saturn

A total collision between a giant meteor and the planet Saturn is advanced by United States Naval Observatory astronomers as a possible cause of the white spot that has appeared on the planet.

The spot appears to be about the size of the earth, nearly 8,000 miles across, but that does not necessarily mean that a meteor as large as the earth hit Saturn, astronomers said.

The spot as seen from the earth is possibly a cloud of dust in the atmosphere that surrounds Saturn.

The spot might have been produced by the fall of a huge meteor or by a giant volcanic eruption from inside the planet. The dust cloud might be considerably larger than the meteor or eruption that caused it.

The white spot, standing out plainly as against the yellow background, is being used by astronomers to check up on the exact speed of the big planet's rotation.

Speeding Up Mail

Fast Plane Is Undergoing Final Tests In England

Speedy mail plane which can fly at 200 miles an hour, is undergoing final tests in England. It is fitted with special apparatus for dropping and picking up mail while in flight, and in all 40,000 tests, weighing half-ton, can be carried. These could be flown from London to Capetown in 48 hours and from London to every country in Europe, with the exception of Turkey and Greece, in less than seven hours.

One Obstacle Removed

A 94-year-old man has just received his diploma at Wofford College, Spartanburg, South Carolina, 72 years after he first entered the school. At least in interviewing prospective employers he won't be told he is too young for the job.

Thirty-three thousand, three hundred and seven sheep, 22,871 cattle, 162,248 hogs, and 32 calves were shipped from western to eastern Canada during the first twenty-four weeks of this year.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful student in an art school, unconscious sketches the head of a fellow student during class and when she is supposed to be drawing a Grecian urn. The professor, looking at her sketch, embarrasses Camilla by having Peter Anson, the boy whose head she sketched, criticize her work before the class. Afterwards Camilla goes to the park outside to cry. A hand touches her shoulder. It turns out to be Peter, who apologizes for his action and consoles her. Camilla secretly loves him. He makes a date to see her that evening but is outwitted when she names an expensive night club. It is far beyond his means, but he resolves to go through with it. Peter takes her to the theatre first and then to the night club where they meet some of Camilla's friends. After taking her home, Peter resolves not to take Camilla out again, because of the expense. He is only a struggling artist. Camilla wonders why he did not ask her to go out again. In school they are cool to one another, and for a few days things go badly between them until he again meets her sitting in the park.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER VI.

Camilla's shy smile was like an appeal to Peter to understand everything she knew and didn't know about herself. Some instinct told him that she needed him, yet he feared to remain. He glanced away through the lacy green of new leaves toward the glistening white walls of the museum.

"I live pretty much around here, day and night. You know I teach a beginner's class over there three evenings a week."

"Oh, do you?" her eager face lit up. "Then, that is why I haven't seen you, isn't it?"

"Yes, I've been—pretty busy," his words stumbled awkwardly. "I can't keep late hours often with so many responsibilities."

"Then I shouldn't have kept you out late on Tuesday night," remorsefully.

"Oh, once in a while can't hurt me," he laughed, "and it's not that I can't stand the pace, but the pro's won't stand for it."

"I'm sorry. Did you get razzed about Tuesday?"

"Oh, no."

"Why didn't you tell me you had classes of your own? I shouldn't have suggested—"

"We had a good time, didn't we?"

"Wonderful! Did you?"

"Best in my life," he declared.

"Then—you haven't avoided me because you were angry with me?"

"Of course not! And I haven't tried to avoid you," he prevaricated. "What made you think that?"

"Well," her eyes followed the toe of her slipper as it drew imaginary lines in the grass, "you didn't call again, or ask to see me."

"But I wanted to," the words were impulsive, and spoken before he knew it.

She looked up at him again with shining eyes. "Then it's all right," she said softly.

"You really cared that I didn't call on you?"

"Yes, very much."

"I'm sorry," he said gently. "I should have phoned you, even if I was busy."

"And please don't think you have to take me places that keep you out late, just to see me." She forfeited her last ounce of pride in a final desperate appeal.

"What could we do, then?"

"Why—we might sit here and just talk, or you could come to my house."

"I'd prefer it here."

"So should I."

"But you must not like me very much."

He wondered if he could be dreaming. Could it be possible that Camilla Hoyt preferred to come and sit in the park with him, to the society of her friends and their favorite haunts?

"Do you mean that you would like to come here—and talk with me—sometimes?"

"Any time. I often come here and sit alone in the evening. I never knew, though, that you were teaching over there, so near me."

"And I never knew you were so near, either. Will you be here, to-night?"

"Do you want me to be?"

"Very much. I'll be finished at nine o'clock."

"Then I'll be here," she promised. They walked on together to the parkway and separated happily in anticipation of the evening. Peter tried to reprove himself for what he had done. He had resolved that the only way to manage his attraction for Camilla was to forget her and stay away from her. It would be a long time before he could forget.

morning after?
How Eno wakes you up, banishes heaviness, relieves you. Take a glass of Eno—and feel a different person.

TAKE ENO'S FRUIT SALT

"Let's go back to the bench where we first talked," Camilla suggested. "Perhaps the lilacs will help me to say what I have to tell you."

They walked back along the path in silence. He was mystified, but it was exquisite to be there with her in the sweet spring night with a new crescent moon filtering its light upon them through the gossamer filigree of new foliage. He knew that nothing she could tell him about herself would make him forget her, ever.

And his heart was bitter with the thought that fate had arranged that she must belong to someone else. He hadn't realized until now how much a part of his ambition she had been.

Why! what was the good of any of the rest of it, after all, if he couldn't have Camilla?

He found her there as she had said she would be.

is very familiar to you in the day were a different place at night?"

"Yes, I've thought that, too. It's something like the difference between the way people appear to be and the way they are, isn't it?"

"Why," he exclaimed with surprise, "you funny little thing! I never knew you would be so serious."

"You see, I am like this park by day and by night—a dual personality. You know me the way you sketchers poorly in Professor Drake's class, but you don't know the me who comes to sit alone in the park and try to think things out."

"I like both of you." His voice was deeply tender with the effort of suppressed emotion.

"But you don't know either of me," she objected, holding up her finger in a warning gesture.

"Perhaps better than you think."

"But you must not like me very much."

He felt reprimanded for his boldness. "I know. I shouldn't be so presuming. But I wonder why you came here tonight to meet me."

"Because I have to tell you something that I want you to know about me. I just can't go on letting you think I'm—"

"Are you sure that you should tell me anything about yourself?" he interrupted hastily. "I shouldn't want you to tell me something you might regret later."

"You are not interested. You don't want to listen."

"Of course," he assured her earnestly. "That is just the trouble. I am too interested in you. I have been, ever since the first day I saw you in Drake's class. I'll always remember the minute you walked into that room," he reminded with pleasure. "You have been in my thoughts ever since."

She sighed softly. "I know. That is why I have to tell you. So that you can forget, too."

His heart beat quickly with fearful apprehension. Was she going to tell him that other fellow in her pink dress? Probably. But she didn't act very happy about it. And why should she tell him—for sympathy?

Was it possible that, even yet, girls were compelled to marry men they did not love because someone else expected them to? It sounded like a medieval history of a fairy tale.

"Well, if telling me about yourself can help you and make me forget, too, I'll listen to you," Peter finally consented.

Not Form Of Greeting

Chinese "Riya" Means The Same As American "Gangway"

When a Chinese cooie says "riya," he is not greeting you or politely passing the time of day. He is giving you the equivalent of the North American "borsan" or "gangway."

This was one of the little customs of Chinese city life which Miss Annis C. Stewart, of Vancouver, and her party of twenty-five Canadian women had to become acquainted with during their six weeks' tour to the Orient. Sailing for the Orient July 1 on the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Russia," they came back recently in the same liner after visiting leading ports of the Far East and making some excursions ashore.

When they first landed in Hong Kong, one of the members of Miss Stewart's party explained "Why we thought we were in the friendliest city imaginable. Everywhere we went Chinese passed and said 'riya.'"

We answered politely and received puzzled looks. Finally we noticed that when a passerby said 'riya' he was a coolie pushing a barrow or carrying some heavy parcel. We finally 'tumbled' that he was giving us the invitation to scam. Outside of this little misunderstanding the girls had a marvellous time. The Japanese port of Kaigasaki where the "Empress of Russia" put into coal, offered an unsheduled attraction. The ship arrived during the annual Feast of the Dead.

"The harbor," said Miss Hazel Calhoun, "was a blaze of lights." Sky rockets soared in the sky and the walls of the houses and shops were open to add more light to guide the spirits of the departed. We learned that the festival takes three days. We were there on the night when all lights are lit to guide the spirits and when food is placed on the burial grounds to nourish the shades of the departed."

The long and the need, the courage for the task: And I have found behind Grim looks and visage cold Hearts that are true and kind, Where dreams like flowers unfold.

These are the masks men wear To hide the truth from sight: The dark design of care, Forbearing as the night; The masks of hate and fear, The sullen mask of pride; They don them year by year And shut themselves inside.

But I have learned to read The thoughts beneath the mask: The longing and the need, The courage for the task: And I have found behind Grim looks and visage cold Hearts that are true and kind, Where dreams like flowers unfold.

Food For Ottawa Banquet Cooked In Electric Oven

The world's first electric stove was an oven. It all came about as an adjunct to the advent of electric street cars, which were first introduced into Canada at Ottawa in the fall of 1892 by the young electrical contractor, Messrs. A. Ahearn and W. Y. Soper. Critics declared electric cars could not be operated during winter in Ottawa—the passengers would become human icicles.

After successful demonstrations a banquet was held in the old Windsor Hotel to honor a number of visitors who had flocked to the capital to see the new electric heating equipment used in the cars. Their credulity almost failed them when they were told everything had been cooked electrically.

They fairly gasped and just had to see. So they were shown the great electric oven, large enough to roast at one time half an ox with vegetables and dessert, a complete banquet. That was on April 3, 1893—just 40 years ago.

Rimby News

Mrs. W. A. Cotton entertained eighteen ladies Wednesday afternoon in honor of her mother-in-law, Mrs. W. Cotton, of Waskada, Man., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cotton during the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Tona are mourning the loss of their baby son, Kenneth John, whose death occurred on Sunday, September 3rd, at the age of five months and 23 days. Rev. J. Murphy conducted the funeral services on Monday and burial took place in the R.C. Cemetery at Bluffton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wilton entertained about 25 friends at their home on Thursday of last week in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Bernard Miles and her three daughters, Viola, Mary and Bernice. A thoroughly enjoyable time was spent at cards and games, and a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Wilton. The visitors returned on Friday to their home at Brooks.

Eradore Uhl had both bones in his right leg broken about four inches above the ankle, and a small bone in his left leg just above the ankle fractured in a fall on Sunday afternoon, September 3rd. Mr. Uhl, with his sons Clarence and Vincent, was putting a load of bundles into the hay loft of the barn on his farm. Clarence had climbed on to the tongue of the wagon, and the horses became startled and started to run away. Mr. Uhl, realizing the danger to his son, and in the excitement of the moment, stepped out of the door of the loft and dropped heavily to the ground, a distance of nine or ten feet.

A farewell "stag" party was given in honour of Charles Rolston in the Legion hall on Tuesday evening, 6th of September, by a number of the Rimby business men and friends from town and country. About 40 were present and the forepart of the evening was pleasantly spent in progressive whist. John Beatty winning the prize for the high score. At the conclusion of the card games, the company stowed away a nice lunch of sandwiches, dilla, cake and coffee.

L. S. Cutler, in a few words then voiced the sentiments of the gathering, stating that all regretted Mr. Rolston's departure from Rimby, but wished him the best of success in his new home. He had always been ready to assist in many of the activities of the community and had assisted materially in more ways than one. He was asked to accept a golf club bag and set of clubs, as a token of regard. Mr. Rolston in accepting the gift, thanked those present for their kind wishes and the gift. It would ever remind him of this Rimby associations, and he had made a lot of friends. The company joined wholeheartedly in singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

O, YEAH!

The Western Globe has received a letter with the names "J. J. Maloney per I. Cumming" (either of the names is signed) typewritten at the foot, which asks for the announcement that Maloney has "severed all connection whatsoever with an organization known as the Knights and Ladies of the Ku Klux Klan, Realm of Alberta, and will not recognize any responsibility for the acts, sayings or obligations from this date (September 7) henceforth."

The letter is written on the personal stationery of J. J. Maloney, bearing a list of his publications, achievements and appointments from amongst which "Imperial Wizard of Knights of the Ku Klux Klan" has been effaced.

Shake, J.J., our work did some good.

VISCOUNT GREY DEAD

Cristian Bank, England, Sept. 7.—Viscount Grey of Fallodon who, as Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, gave Germany the ultimatum plunging Great Britain into war, died today at the age of 71. He virtually retired from public life in 1916 because of failing eyesight and had been seriously ill for more than a week, becoming gradually weaker, although he waged a stubborn battle for life. Death came to him at 6:05 a.m. at Fallodon, his beautiful home on the Northumbrian coast.

As secretary for foreign affairs for the years from 1905 to 1916, Viscount Grey was fated to play a leading role in the destinies of Europe. He never wavered in his stand in behalf of Belgium after exhausting every effort to avert the great disaster of war.

The room in the mellow red-brick mansion where the viscount spent his last days, looked out on a bird sanctuary he had set up on the grounds of Fallodon, and throughout the long days of his illness, he lay with the windows open whenever possible so the sounds of his well-loved birds could reach him.
